"Though I am under surveillance and have been so since 1982, I am not afraid because I know well how they operate. As for the harrassment, I find that the best they can do is send computer viruses, create mysterious debts and credit problems, search my mail, and send police around with dubious search warrants which do not hold up in court. My home is an electronic fortress, so there is no concern about them planting bugs, cameras, or incriminating evidence. therefore I am not afraid to communicate."

Our attitude was: if you can't make them shut up, at least warp their memories of what was seen, thus rendering their stories unbelievable. Flying saucers were all the rage back then, so it was very easy to turn a sighting of a US top-secret stealth, surveillance, or experimental aircraft into an H.G. Wells-type invasion....
