The attached .jpg file is a map of the US with each of the six school shootings marked and lines connecting the dots. There are a number of other events and disasters (both natural and man made) which fall on either of these two lines. I was going to find a better map, gather all the locations of things, and plot the points. However, I do not have the time to devote to it. The NW to SE line is known as the 'Sollog Line of Tragedy' which can be researched at www.sollog.com. However, the site seems to provide just a taste of the information and you have to pay for the rest, and there are tons of commercials.

Aside from the school shootings, the following events have fallen on the Sollog Line:

- ValueJet 542 crash in FL
- Jon Benet Ramsey murder
- Clinton support plane crash
- OKC bombing
- McVeigh's trial
- A-10 Crash in CO mtns.
- Last nights (19990503) tornados

Several additional plane crashes
A number of natural disasters and who knows what else

The line on the attached map is just plotted with three points and not as accurate as when all points are plotted.

The NE to SW line is of a greater concern to me since it crosses right through my hometown (Canton, OH). There are at least three additional events which fall on or near this line. They are...

Swissair 111 crash
Waco massacre
Littlerock
Cincinatti Tornados

The interesting thing about this map that knocks people over is the intersection of the two lines. Hope, AK, the birth place and hometown of Bill Clinton. Is it a divine sign? The signature of a psycho? It's too weird to be a coincidence. Especially considering that the events have all taken place since he took office.

Since I do not have the time to put into this that I would like, I am posting it here as a project for list members. Lets determine what all falls on the line and where the lines extend beyond the US. It would also be very interesting to see where the lines cross in China.

Everytime I look at that map, I get a gut feeling that I am looking at a piece of the key to something.

Regards,
Jerry
