-About Us -

We sign exclusive publishing rights to high profile books. Because our books appeal to a mass worldwide audience we're able to market them through word-of-mouth advertising. In turn, this allows us to pay our readers a recommendation reward for telling others about our books.

-No Advertising -

We're able to pay our readers to tell others about our books because we do very little advertising so our marketing and distribution costs are minimal. Most of the advertising you'll see is when our readers advertise on their own to build a recommendation reward.

-Level 7 -

We'll pay you recommendation rewards based on book sales on your 7th level. That means you recommend our book to someone, who in turn recommends it to someone else, and that person recommends it to another person...etc down to the 7th level. We'll pay you 15% of the retail price that every person on your 7th level paid for their book as a recommendation reward. We pay on the 7th level so that you will receive a much greater amount than if we paid you a recommendation reward based on the people you personally may tell. Let's say you tell ten people; 10 times $1.50 (15% of a $10 book) is $15. But $1.50 times 5,000 people on your 7th level is much nicer. And once someone has purchased one of our books below you, they stay there forever. That means every time someone on your 7th level purchases a book in the future, you'll receive a recommendation reward (if you have purchased that particular book as well.) We do business like this because there is no better advertising than someone telling their friends about a good book. Our company grows exponentially faster this way, and our readers benefit as well.

-For Authors -

For the author of a high profile book, we offer the ability to get a book published without an agent; we deal directly with the author. We also offer instant access to a worldwide market via a network of current readers. Because of the high profile nature of our books and the word-of-mouth worldwide distribution, we anticipate selling in excess of 20 million copies of every book we publish.
