Triangular UFOs

Triangular shaped UFOs, such as the one associated with the Belgian flap. Their performance defies usual aerodynamic technology.

See Secret Military Aircraft for conventional aircraft that may have a triangular shape.

Regarding "Triangular UFOs" - Latest First

Triangle UFOs and Antigravity

I think the most likely solution to these triangle UFOs is conventional aircraft, or new government projects in the works, mistaken as UFOs. But if, in fact, these crafts are UFOs of extraterrestrial origin the antigravity solution makes sense. If you have read Lazar's story, the configuration of gravity amplifiers is always in three to focus on a point or shift the waves, so a UFO incorporating this technology would need to be either disc-shaped or triangular in shape to hold these three amplifiers.

Triangular UFO

My sister saw something she thinks was a UFO recently She was with her son and said that it was right over their heads and only about 4 feet higher than a telephone pole. It was so close she could see seams in the metal. It was huge and triangular with large amber lights on the underside and tiny pastel lights around the perimeter. It had telescoping arms moving independently of each other that came out of the outer edge of the (ship) while they were standing outside their car watching. They sounded like a camera zooming as they telescoped. We are wondering if anyone else has seen one. E-mail me at misstexas2@aol.com Thank you, L. J. McCall

Sightings Reported April '98

An article in Daily Mail UK, reports Triangle-shaped, 900ft from tip to base, off east coast UK, zig-zag 17,000 mph and then speed up to 24,000 mph. Other reports state craft of simlilar description, same size, 'floating' at 30-40mph. If this is same aircraft - IS IT EARTH-BASED TECH? It was tracked on Radar so it's not stealth Is it? What sort of propulsion is it using. Might I suggest Anti Grav? Forget Flying Saucers and Lights in Sky these triangle sightings (Belgium, Hudson Valley and more) are most compelling. Search Web for Triangle, Boomerang only. The rest is just by the way.
