(RINS) Denver, CO - RISKERS International released news of a new discovery on Mars earlier this week. A member of the RISKER organization appears to have discovered a new face on the Mars planet surface. It has been labeled the BAR discovery (Burisch-Andrews-RISKERS)

Recently, RISKERS received some updated photos from a lab at UNC (University of Northern Colorado) These photos have been posted to the RISKERS site for review at:
<http://riskers.org/news>

"These new photos are quite impressive. It appears that we really are looking at something that could have been made by an intelligent race. Whatever it is, it is 'not' a natural phenomenon." - Todd Andrews - Founder RISKERS International.

More imaging, including 3D conversion and surface scan, should be available in the next few days.
