Why not ? They have ca 7.500 satellits up there on different levels and paths, with lots of technical stuff including the latest scientific German digital camera, observing each and everything.

As metioned before, the camera's resolution is independent of wheather, and resolved a 7 cm (ca 2.5 inch) cable of a ski gondola on a distance of 40 km (ca. 25 miles) through fog, mist and clouds in the alps, as shown in a recent German tv report from 3 months ago.
