Read your stuff on hale-bopp. Precise clear and to the point. When three people come up with the same stuff or close; this indicates that there is a high degree of truth to it. Hale-bopp because of battles with its lesser companion probably will spin on a irregular path just like a bola. The connection being the magnetic fields between the two bodies as well as gravitational pull generated by mass and density. This will cause it to behave in an irregular manner having everybody scratching their heads wondering what it is going to do next. The more unstable the path the greater opportunity for gravitational as well as magnetic deflection from present course.
