Hi Dennis,

Well, have any ufologists then borne down on A-R&L, or whomever informed them there would be a press conference, and let them know how crummy it was for them to do such a thing? I take it it's the latter, and his/her identity is not known. Thanks for the information about A-R&L.

We often hear that a confession of identity will be forthcoming within the next few months or year on related matters, but such never seems to come about. No doubt the publicity that is whipped up discourages the witness/finder from ever coming out of anonymity.

I would hope I would have if I had been in his place, but if he had not intended to be in on a news conference, and had never personally promised to, that's quite a different matter. He had to choose between the lesser of evils, one being enhanced ridicule from colleagues if he participated in it.
