Subject: ACC has updated its web site

Hi all,

American Computer has updated its web posting on the alien technology transfer. <http://www.american-computer.com/roswell.htm>
Here it is:

RUMOR and CONVENTIONAL FOLK LORE have claimed that a UFO crash landed in Roswell, New Mexico, in September, 1947 near a Nuclear Research Center maintained by the US Air Force at its airbase in Roswell. Supposedly, authentic reports of the crash were suddenly covered up by the Air Force -- because the information unwisely released by base PR personnel, might constitute a threat to national security. Anecdotal reports have since claimed that Aliens, killed in the wreck, or afterward, were subsequently autopsied by the Surgeon General's office, and that the Surgeon General insisted that the autopsy be filmed. Supposedly: their bodies are now being stored by the US Army.

[NOTE: in a recent series of unusual contacts with the Alien Presence Investigation community and the Public, allegations that these 'alien visitors' bodies resemble 'smallish grey or pink skinned beings with 6 fingers' have been alleged, stories that were supposedly circulating since 1948.

According to one gentleman's EMAIL - entirely unconfirmed and entirely anecdotal - Military personnel at Wright Paterson Air Force Base in 1948, carried strange stories away from the base about "Dead Martians or something, on Ice" being transferred to Washington, DC by way of Wright Patterson, after the alleged crash, described in unconfirmed EMAILs sent to ACC since the story was first posted here. This unconfirmed report bears some resemblance to other stories which have surfaced in investigative journals. Again, we are describing these further reports to us, for your consideration against the context of our original story.]

Much more recently, stories have begun surfacing about what the Army or Air Force supposedly did with the downed Alien Spacecraft in September and October of 1947. Nuclear Powered Engines and Advanced Communications and Computing devices, all of which were a hundred years beyond post-World War II technology, were taken from the Alien wreck and purportedly made their way to The Bell System's "Bell Laboratories", then located in Murray Hill, New Jersey -- it has been alleged.

There, they were studied, dissected, microanalyzed and pieces tested. One piece was supposedly found to have unique potential, an Alien switching device composed of Silicon and Arsenic, arranged in a microscopic array much more complicated than even now have been assembled by Humankind, hundreds of years ahead. It purportedly became the priority focus object of Bell Labs' and The US Department of Defense's analysis and scientific research.

It was discovered by the researchers, that the unusual electronic Alien device could act as both a high speed electronic switch and as an Amplifier. They decided to call it the "Transfer Resistor", because it could be made to resist or accept power flow at much higher or lower currents than were applied to it, depending upon unique application of electron flows.

[According to one of our Scientific Sources, prior to 1947, there were no Transistors in use, only raw germanium and selenium diodes composed of naturally occurring elements -- mined from Bauxite and other mines. After September of 1947 and the alleged alien technology transfer to Bell Labs by the US Department of Defense, the entirely ARTIFICIALLY comprised Silicon 'Transistor' suddenly emerged at Bell Labs, arsenic doped in trace quantities into specially prepared Silicon produced remarkable changes in the 'conductive properties' of Silicon, when Boron and other gases and liquids were used to deposit it in the Silicon base. This produced the "Transistor" effects that had not been discovered by researchers working with rectifiers in over a hundred years.]

[Our Scientific Commentator went on to tell us: The materials used require very advanced technology to manufacture that didn't exist in 1947, to produce them... were you to search the entire Deserts of Africa and Asia, you would not find a single piece of Silicon (sand) that would match this miracle of conductivity. Patents were awarded Bell Labs in the 1948 and 1949 era, indicating these 'alien' marvels to be 'earthshaking discoveries of scientist at Bell Labs' (Shockley, Bardeen and Brittain). Were they, in fact, then only recently discovered in debris from an Alien Craft allegedly wrecked in Roswell, New Mexico on July 7, 1947? Another crash site on another time and date?]

Rumors have been flying in UFO-logy circles that, in 1948 and 1949, realizing that Aliens might not take lightly to this research, fearing attack not from the Soviet Union -- but from Aliens of unknown origin -- the U.S. Government hurriedly erected anti-aircraft batteries upgraded to Nike Anti-Missiles in the mid-to-late 50's in the surrounding Watchung Mountains of New Jersey... [and, the sake of completeness: a second site in Holmdel, New Jersey, both near Bell Lab's Murray Hills and Holmdel facilities] supposedly to protect it from space invasion!! It is not known if this is any indication that the Department of Defense accidentally shot down the space craft and feared a reprisal.

[Since originally publishing this account, we have received several letters from persons who grew up in the vicinity of these 'Bases' relating the following story: In the interest of public relations over missile bases in Union and Hunterdon County residents 'backyard', Bell Labs sponsored children in the 50s and 60s to take guided tours of the two missile bases on field trip from their grade and junior high schools, claiming the bases were 'to protect the residents of Central New Jersey from Russian Nuclear bombardment'.]

Were they, in fact, just protecting Bell Labs from Space Invasion? [Some asked: Why not protect New York City, 60 miles distant, and place the launch pads where they could do so?]

The Space Defense Anti-missile Batteries, along the Lookout Mountain Ridge north of Bell Labs, is now abandoned and partly overbuilt by a regional high school. On the "Lookout Mountain Nike Base" there were, supposedly, frequent "alien anti-invasion" readiness exercises and drills throughout the 50's, 60's and the early 70's, notably: their frequency reportedly increased any time UFO sightings were reported to the US Air Force -- particularly in the New Jersey flight corridors, or so it has been alleged !!

According to one account: the Alien Silicon "amplifier / switch", evaluated in October and November of 1947, was discovered to have enormous implications. The Alien device was allegedly a hundred years beyond the then simple "junction diodes".

[Our research has recently produced one possible explanation for why this may have been so significant: Rectifier Diodes commonly in use at the time by military electronics, were 'polarized' diodes that could only conduct power in 'one direction' - or 'unidirectional' - but they were not 'semiconducting' - which means 'variable in conductivity due to the effects of some other stimulus'. They were also composed of naturally occurring earth minerals, whereas Transistors were derived of a special and unique formula for doping refined Silicon with trace elements of Arsenic and other 'secret' materials, which THEN yielded the unusual 'semiconducting' properties of the Transistor -- our conclusion: the two devices are very, very different!]

Yet it was reportedly determined at the time that simplified versions of the Alien devices could be manufactured by the effecting of several upgrades to existing technology. Then President Harry S. Truman ordered the devices "cloned" and a cover story manufactured. He was supposedly quoted as saying: "We can't keep so earthshaking a technological advance out of the hands of mankind. It just isn't right !" -- with classic Harry S. Truman sobriety.

So, according to the story leaked by a reliable source to UFO-logy circles: in mid-December of 1947, to effect a plausible cover story, the DoD and Bell Labs purportedly manufactured a series of Press Releases, to whit: that after a "2 Year Long Extensive Research Effort" --discovery of the Transistor had "at last" been accomplished, supposedly by clever Bell Labs researchers (Drs. Shockley, Bardeen and Brattain, at Bell Lab's Electronic Circuits Research Center, under the aegis of maverick Bell Labs Vice President John "Jack" Morton, [NOTE: we have learned that Mr. Morton was murdered in the early 70's under highly bizarre circumstances]).

Since that time, The Bell System, and Bell Labs, in the hands of successor company AT&T and its partly owned subsidiary, Lucent Technologies, have continued to maintain the "Transistor Story" for all of posterity, while quietly covering up the real tracks that led the Alien devices to Bell Labs.

An Alien Technology proponent says that the device in the famous "transfer resistor test rig" at Bell Labs was, in fact, an actual piece of the original Alien integrated circuit array of transistor-like circuit pieces -- found in one of the Alien communication devices at the Crash Site in Roswell, N.M.

[To further clarify this point: Supposedly, Bell Labs first announced it was composed of 'Germanium', like the old rectifier diode, so as to protect the Silicon formula from industrial espionage, until it could get its 1948 patents filed. Once filed and granted as "unique", "originally authored" and approved, the patents became the basis for Bell controlling the Transistor for about the first 15 years of its existence. Those who used it, had to pay some form of royalty to Bell.]

It has allegedly been reported that it took a year or more for Bell Labs to then figure out how to commercially produce the miracle devices. Reportedly, subsequent technology obtained over the course of the next 10 years by Bell Labs, from the pieces of the wreck delivered to them by the DoD, included the Laser, enhanced solid state circuit components, large scale switching control systems and high definition imaging devices...

[ACC has learned through investigation that: Anti Trust suits filed against the Bell System by the Department of Justice in the 50's and the 70's, may have delayed the introduction of many of the refinements of the Transistor, and the Integrated Circuit's manufacture - forcing the Bell System to use outside companies to sell its research in commercial form. Perhaps this might suggest that the alleged alien artifacts had to be kept hidden for this reason as well? Perhaps, even now, after the breakup of the Bell System, there may continue to be unintroduced marvels. We don't know if the story is true, but if it is: In whose hands are they kept?]

Some devices from the downed Alien spacecraft, not fully understood to this day, allegedly include a high energy microwave amplifier that has the secondary effect of decomposing solid objects into their molecular components, a form of circuitry that runs on other than electronic power: using particles thought to have very short half-lives in the natural universe ("muons"), and a huge induction generator-like coil system some 50 feet in diameter which appears to implement part of some aspect of the vehicle's ability to perform unique flying characteristics and aerobatics - some think it might be a "gravity nullifying" device.

ACC has recently received numerous requests for information about whether the Transistor was evolved as a Military device during World War II. According to several documentary films we reviewed, devices used by the Military didn't reflect the existence of the Transistor until well into the 50's. Historians note that the all important 'Proximity Fuse' used in anti-aircraft weapons throughout World War II and up through the Koren War in the 50's, still used Miniature Vacuum Tube Circuitry developed by Sylvania Corporation and AT&T for use in Hearing Aids. Had the transistor existed during World War II, as AT&T implies in its public relations about the Transistor, would not AT&T have been the first to put it to use in the task of shooting down Japanese aircraft bombing US Naval Craft?

Soviet technology of the time, in spite of its advanced state, still used Miniature Vacuum Tubes right up until the 70's... What prevented the Soviets from being able to perfect 'high yields' in efforts to duplicate the Transistor? Could it have been, simply, secrets possessed by Bell Labs and Western Electric from 1951, that, the Russians, without an Alien Craft or debris from Roswell of their own at the time, were simply UNABLE to figure it all out through sheer Soviet Research power? These are all very interesting questions!

Rumors have been presented to us in EMAIL and by phone, since we first published this article, suggesting that the alleged alien devices taken from Roswell, hidden away under control of Bell Labs and a secret operating group controlling the "Manhattan Project" (which produced the Nuclear Bomb, and maintained a facility near the alleged Roswell crash site) had formed a strategic alliance to control the dissemination of technology like the Transistor 'from the private sector'.

And, it has been suggested to American, that the auspices of the power of the Bell System - a company so large and so powerful, that the US Department of Justice and the Federal Courts broke Bell apart in 1981 'in the interest and the spirit of Free Competition', has resuolted in a remarkable competitive edge among AT&T related companies, even today. Was that 'competitive technological edge' -- privileged access to Alien Technologies?

Many members of the public have asked: Who keeps hunting down the 'leaks' about it all, and squashing them? Email writers, authors, callers and members of the Investigations community have all suggested the allegation that the US Government is keeping it all a secret. It has been suggested that AT&T and other companies are working TOGETHER to proliferate knowledge from the debris, for commercial purposes. Some have asked us: "Have they organized a strategic marketing network that creates the cover stories needed to develop markets for the technology, as they commercialize it? Did they somehow get back in TOUCH with the Aliens?

Doesn't the Public deserve the right to know what happened with the alleged Roswell Space Craft?" International emailers have written us and asked "Why is the US Government hiding the Truth?" and "Were the United States so advanced, it would have won the Viet Nam war, obviously, it had to be deriving its technology from an outside source!" (This last one was from a writer in Italy...)

After ACC's first publication of this article, several members of the Extraterrestrial Investigations community interested in Alien Space Visits, approached us and told us about a "Lieutenant Colonel Corso" who supposedly wrote a book about the artifacts being disseminated to Bell Labs.

We haven't read it, but we have been told it pretty much appears to coincide with the above story, which was related to us by a Defense Communications Consultant who had access to the people at Bell Labs who he said were involved with the alleged "alien artifacts". It is remarkable that TWO INDEPENDENT SOURCES are saying pretty much the same thing about Bell Labs and the Transistor and the alleged Roswell, New Mexico crash of an Alien Spacecraft.

Since the time that Col. Corso was identified to American, new information, unconfirmed, has surfaced and been presented to us. Two people who wrote to us, claimed their fathers worked for Bell Labs, have identified to us, by unconfirmable email reports, that a parent employed by the Labs had taken them to see a "UFO" when they were very young of age, telling them that the "UFO" was being studied by the Labs and that they and the Air Force were going to try to learn to fly it "someday". The stories, of course, are at this time, unconfirmed and may be dramatizations or inaccurate. However, the email letters do appear quite believable.

Others have written, insisting that the Transistor is really just the outgrowth of prior research into Germanium Diodes. Could this be true, or is it all just a 'smokescreen' intended to mislead the public? If true, is AT&T still trying to cover it all up? Or would it, in fact, not be beneficial to AT&T to reveal these secrets of 50 years ago, if they are true? Someone has even recently claimed that a 'lab notebook' from the 40's, tends to corroborate our story, as it refers to a plan to deliberately cover up the effort to reverse-engineer alien technology, by creating a 'public relations' effort at Bell Labs. Again, we can neither confirm nor deny this report.
