Hear, Hear.

Yes, but it's bad. Glenn Dennis invented his nurse, and probably had nothing to do with the case.

J. Bond Johnson is now billing himself as the "Roswell Photographer" though he only photographed the remains of a balloon in General Ramey's office. He is denying that he told me that Ramey told him it was a balloon. He is denying that he said that he wrote the story in the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, which he told me. It's all on tape. Even after hearing the tapes, he denies it.

Jim Ragsdale so changed his story that he is useless as a witness to anything. He sold out for money. He signed to mutually exclusive affidavits.

The case has become so confused by so many people with their own agendas that it is becoming difficult to sort the truth from the fiction. Some see it as a way of making money, some see it as a way of gaining the spotlight, and some see it as a danger to their own belief structures. We have the Air Force issuing multiple final reports, some with conclusions so ridiculous that even the news media was rejecting them.

But, when all is said in done, we have every member of Colonel Blanchard's staff who was alive to talk to us telling us that what was recovered was not a balloon. Patrick Saunders wrote on
