Subject: Alfred's Odd Ode #231

Apology to MW #231 (For March 14, 1998)

Is there reading between the lines of our watchers? Can we guess at the secrets with which they are blessed? Or's it curses inflicted they'd sooner be shed of -- of existence they're tired; is it living they detest? Could the breath of their empire be rooted in tyranny? Is it terror they seek to instill in our minds; teasing with visions of maddening ephemery?

What is their purpose? What do they want? What are their reasons? Why do they haunt?

What do they do? How do they live? What is their work? What can they give? What do they take? What is their angle? How are they recompensed -- I'm at a dangle!

Perhaps they're a mirror held back at ourselves! We see in them us and it's us that's compelled. Compelled by abduction -- it's what we expect! We'd do it to them, and it's that they detect! You'd have to admit that they're nicer than we'd be. We'd treat 'em like bugs, or at best, a prized queen bee. We've done it before, our history is filled with examples of cruelty to those unfulfilled. Those that are subject to short sighted judgements; those deemed unworthy for convenience, abutment. We slice them and dice them for simple percentage; exploit and use up -- a predictable image.

No, they're giving better than they'd get (taking any odds, that bet); their disrespect could be a kind of justice. I mean, consider all our crimes, we let our babies starve and die! We should pray we don't serve time for our injustice.

If the ET comes to you -- what are you learning? Is it true? Don't waste your time in horror or disgust! Is there method in the madness, or are you crippled by your sadness because of damage to the fabrics of the trust! Don't bemoan their nameless tactics or mysterious detachment, its your culture that=92s the one to keep you down. The ET's are a shadow from the whole of what's unknown and could likely (?) usurp culture putting smiles over frowns. It's your culture making tears, it's your culture breeding fear! It's your culture that's the reason for the laughter. It sets the tone for your derision -- and it's culture's lack of vision that is truly your tormentor and detractor.

Define for me success, and an easy, right on, guess would be space flight for a species or a race. Live in structures you employ between the stars that you enjoy, and have your system span the length of awesome, endless, timeless, space! Note our lack of this success, and further note profound distress, as we poison our environs; I'll be frank. We are hanging by a thread; a bug or rock could strike us dead; we are by no means successful; you should take that to the bank.

If we want ET respect, then we should act like it instead. We should clean up, first, our act, right here on Earth. We should end our petty tyrannies, and empower individuals to be the sum that's greater than its curse!

The individual's now disdained, a manipulated brain -- programmed by the man to do his bidding. But the day will come, and soon, when we find we've got more room as the multi-verse unfolds -- it will be fitting!
