>Hello,

>>Sorry, but Terry Dickinson and I both looked at Joachim's work

>>Try looking at the ZRI booklet or better yet 'The Interrupted >>Journey' by John Fuller. Marge Fish's work had also been >>carefully considered and passes muster.

>Could you give me the URL to this information ?

There is a new edition of two books-in-one by John G. Fuller -
'Incident at Exeter' and the 'Interrupted Journey'.

Both are worth reading. I doubt very much if the Zeta Reticuli stuff is on the web. Beautiful color. I have the world supply of the 32page full color reprint from Astronomy Magazine.. including Dickinson's original article and about 9 more letters including 2 from Carl Sagan.. Really neat.

I don't like to simplify our analysis of Koch's work. Frankly there were so many baseless assumptions and distortions that after a while we gave up.

The Update I mentioned deals with a number of objections. It is interesting that everybody who attacked Marge's work misrepresented what she did.
