Mogul's secrecy status has been known for some time. The actual device was not a big secret. It was the launches dates times and locations that needed to be secret to prevent interference or damage to prevent it from doing it's job. It even came with directions for returning it if someone came across the wreckage.

There was nothing high tech about the mogul balloon or it's payload. Project Mogul was a secret. mogul balloons were not. people need to get their facts straight rather than wasting time endlessly thrashing back and forth over moot points and non-issues.
