Another report from the Evening Standard (London) for 27th April, which I forgot to post yesterday!

UFO mystery as pilots see red

by Ed Harris

An unidentified object described as "a great red light in the sky" and "big as a battleship" has caused consternation in the skies over the North Sea.

Pilots reported being buzzed by a "long, cylindrical object" at 28,000ft and one pilot and his crew described how the underside of their jet became bathed in an "incandescent light".

The Civil Aviation Authority has confirmed that a comprehensive report of the sightings has been handed in, although both it and the Ministry of Defence deny that they are investigating it.

The Luton-based plane, a Debonair BAe146, was flying company executives from Sweden to Humberside airport when, it is claimed, the object came to a sudden halt before speeding by the airliner in the incident on 3 February, 58 miles off the coast of Denmark.
