>>No sir -- you did not. You trotted out the old, and very >>competently discredited, NASA excuse.

>>>On four radio shows and in 9 email posts-detailed dissertations.
>>>STS-48, STS-80, = frozen ejecta from on orbit vehicles.

>>. . . And Dr. Haines, Dr. Kasher, and (I believe) Stanton >>Friedman reduced your "frozen ejecta" to bull ejecta. Moreover, >>your "9 email posts-detailed dissertations" detailed bupkus. Who >>are you, really?

>Had you paid any attention at any time, I stated catagorically I >would bring the whole tape of STS-48 and 80 to the U and Omaha >to any of these 'experts' an challenge their 10 dollar per book >ripoff analysis, for free, and show them what they are seeing.
>They refused. At least with Kasher's school.

What they are seeing, sir, are objects that stop dead in space, and then accelerate to alternate directions in a manner not consistant with the shuttle's attitude thrusters. They are seeing objects that should not be seen given the initial infinite focus of the space borne camera. They are seeing objects that are not accelerating in accordance with the speed of the gas issuing from the shuttle's attitude thrusters. They are seeing, sir, that which you merely proclaim cannot be there. As to their refusal to hear your evidence, well -- we only have your word for that, after all.

>I'll challenge anyone with the color tape of the full sequence.
>I see this stuff everyday. If you want UFOs, fine---UFOS in the >mission tapes everywhere. Great. What could that crazy NASA >know.

You must mean the same crazy NASA that discontinued live video feeds right after STS-48? The same crazy NASA that is so effortlessly forthcoming, openly honest, and truthful? The same crazy NASA that bases their whole rationalization on the absence of intelligent extraterrestrial life to a supposition that our shallowly understood physics won't allow them the energy to travel from a point so far away? What would YOU know? Hail NASA? The hell with NASA!

>You are as the rest. See whatever you like in the fuzzy B & W >tape. Its hopeless anyway. Dr. Kasher and rest are welcome to >distort reality all they wish.

I submit, sir, that it is you who distorts reality; it is you that deepens our academic fog, and it is you that contributes to the general confusion describing the ufological field, and its capacity to investigate, today. Dr. Kasher testified that he went into the research fully expecting to bear out your weak contention -- but he couldn't make it fit. The observable data did not support it. It seems he has the guts to ask the hard questions, and you don't. What say you to that?

>They are the problem then, not I >or NASA. I have a right to make that claim as much as you 'want' >to see UFOs in the mission tapes. I say you're in error. You >call me names.

Uh -- What names? Don't get me wrong, I'm not above it -- I just don't think I've called you any. I could be wrong.

>Super. Get the color tapes from JSC and then you >decide.

Your color tapes are a red herring, Mr. Stephens. The physics that Dr. Kasher investigates on the black and white tape would be identical to the physics on your very fishy color one. Marylyn's white dress blows up from the grate the exact same way, obeying the same physics, in color or black and white. Shame on your scurrilous misdirection; I remain unconvinced of your veracity; you remain unconvincing.
