Hello Werner!

A bright bolide crossed the Italian sky at 2.45 a.m. on Monday, July 19th, and was seen by hundreds of people as west as Cagliari (Sardegna), as east as Bari, as north as Rome and as south as Palermo (Sicily), according to the first data we have been collecting until now.

It was videotaped by at least two people at Turi (Bari) and Palermo: we are trying to get copies of the videos (the first one was shown at Channel TV news yesterday evening and we taped it).

Alien spaceships, comets, meteors and... the falling down Russian MIR were blamed by media and astronomers.

I was interviewed by national daily "La Repubblica" for today's edition, and our phone number was reporter asking for witnesses to step forward: that will be the only useful consequence of the event.

Best regards
