Ah Yes...but you forgot to mention that Tesla was the original inventer of the "Radio". That Edison conspired with Marconi to steal Tesla's designs. Also that the courts turned the Patent back to Tesla in the 1940's.

Yet, despite this, we still hear that Marconi 'invented' the radio.

Basically, Tesla has been shut out of the modern scientific community. Why?

He demonstrated the death ray to Mussolini by having him fly a plane over and then have the pilot bail out. Tesla then shot the plane down with his death ray... the forerunner of today's laser beam... He took it to the Navy first, but they didn't want it...
Why?

He invented the first "remote controlled robot." Yet we never hear about this...Why?

He proved that Einstein's theory of Relativity or E=MC2 was not correct. That he could transmit electricity through the ground and light lamps several miles away, without wires.

That he could send an electric current through the earth's crust from his lab in Colorado to his lab in South Africa and back, being registered at the South African lab, at the speed of light to the 27th power... Yet we do not hear this...Why?

Talk about science failing to acknowledge a true genius! They have failed miserably... they took their lead from Thomas Edison... the genius who chose direct current as the way to light London, over AC current, which we now know was superior for lighting the world.. Yet DC is still important in automobiles, and all electronic components. Yet, Edison probably did not foresee these conditions in his day, but Tesla most definitely did. Why?

So, please don't talk to me about "dreamers" going "beyond the pale," when in fact science itself has failed to acknowledge this man and his contribution to modern science.

In fact, if I understand it correctly, they are still deciphering his material at the various military and scientific labs around the world in order to apply his techniques to modern micro-electronics today.

Why?

Just the telephone poles and transformers huh?

Yeah, right...

Thanks Bruce.
