I too have downloaded the software and am analyzing my first data set. It is WAY cool, and I was surprised at the minimal effect that the extra processor load had on my system. You don't even know it's there. I am running a P2 233MHZ MMX processor with 130 MB ram. This is a great opportunity for Joe public to be part of something that could change our civilization as we know it. seti@home say's that if a signal is found, they will give credit to the PC that discovered it. Neat!

Scott R. Caput

The brain is by far the most complexly organized piece of matter we know. It is enormously more complicated in structure than a star is, for instance, which is why astronomers know so much about stars, and psychologists know so little about brains.
