Joachim,

Your point is taken, but there isn't a thing we can do about it.

I will grant that the phenomenon seems to speak to us on some subconscious level. When I look at the formations, what comes to mind is a feeling of deja vu. However, I think you're getting a little too much out of it. You may be suffering from Coke-Bottleitis...an affliction found in the movie "The Gods Must be Crazy".

Sorry, but these things are made by some physical process that I don't understand, and I want to know what that is. Understand that not all of us are ready to bow to every wierd phenomenon. I don't need or want spiritual guidance from wheat. I just want to know who bent it, why, and how. Don't expect me to sit on my laurels because you're content.

Greg
