

Not all the "Foo-Fighter" were weapons of one kind or another, nor were they due solely to natural phenomena or battle fatigue. Exactly what they were is anybody's guess. The late Luis Alvarez, who with HP Robertson investigated the reports during the war, was an expert in radar and Electronic countermeasures (ECM). His Early Warning Microwave radar was used during D-day. A Nobel laureate, today, he is best remembered for his work on the Cretaceous Impacter, that supposedly wiped out the dinosaurs.
